SKETCHES OF LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

Telegram Bureau: Rooms 121-122 Hotel Majestic, West Seventy-second Street.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—It was so hot last week in New York that a daring newspaper of the younger set ran the weather report across its first page eight columns wide. Lone waiters stood around their tables in the cafes with tears in their eyes and perspiration on their foreheads and the family hotels were evacuated for the week end.

About the only thrill of the week along Broadway was when a cowboy connoisseur from the stampede walked into the bar of the Knickerbocker. He threw a dime down on the table and said to the waiter, "Gimme some of your ten-cent whiskey." The waiter said: "We do not have ten-cent whiskey." "Well," said the cowboy as he picked up his dime, "I'll be hanged if I'll drink your nickel stuff," and he walked out.

Those who were fortunate to get away to the mountains found themselves halted if there were children in the party and were turned back on account of the infantile paralysis scare.

The bars are up for the New York kiddies at such resorts as Long Beach, Coney Island, Rockaway, Sea-bright and other ocean side places.

Charles Hanson Towne, the magazine man, was riding on the Ninth Avenue elevated express the other morning and saw a plain anaemic looking girl reading a book on eugenics and the man next to her was so engrossed in looking over her shoulder that he forgot his station.

On the same elevated there was a dashing young blonde in a short skirt. Through the thin silken hose of the fair damsel could be seen a yellow bank note encircling her ankle—but Mr. Towne did not notice that.

The film world is excited over the

you think of the big street car strike?"

"I do not know much about it," he said, "except I see that the big subway guards are talking of varying their daily work of jamming the populace into the subway trains by jumping with both feet on their employers. It ought to relieve the monotonous life they lead anyway."

"The Girl from Brazil" is the name of a new musical production scheduled for Broadway so the readers can make their own jokes. It is entirely too warm to pun.

Of Dutch Stocks Take Big Jump When the Bourse Re-Opens.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.)
AMSTERDAM, Netherlands, Aug. 15.—So widespread and considerable has been the rise in the prices of Dutch stocks on the Amsterdam Bourse since its re-opening after six months' idleness in February, 1915, that a list of a hundred of the principal banks, industrial concerns, oil, development, rubber, tobacco and shipping companies shows a total gain in value of over $112,000,000. This figure is arrived at on the basis of the difference in quotations and the respective amounts of issued capital. It is true that there has been a considerable decline in the case of certain other stocks, but the present position is on the whole a striking one in view of the fear and anxiety with which the re-opening of the stock exchange was viewed. One shipping company's shares have risen over 700 per cent, and a number of stocks of various kinds have advanced 100 and 200 per cent. With a rise of 217 points in the eighteen months, the Holland-American line's stock is today worth $19,400,000 more.
